

In 1970, America's air, water and land were dirty and polluted. Senator Gaylord Nelson asked people from all over the United States to help. On April 22, 1970, millions of Americans celebrated the first Earth Day with activities in schools, colleges, cities and towns. That same year, President Richard Nixon and Congress started the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to help pass laws to clean up the country.